A WANDERING correspondent of the Cincianati Enquirer tells of Colonel Thomas Powell, "Dake of Birmingham," so-called, of Alabama; that he began his exteer as barkeeper, and that Assembling of the State Republican Charles Linn, another magnate of our time in the same State, came along with a monkey and organ. Linn is a Norwegian, and the monkey was from Bravil, the organ from Milan, Powell to the little village in Southern Alatiania. Powell and Linn and the monk yeu-tered into parinership, and much whis-ky was sold; then land was bough!, and coal and iron-fields, and Birmingham was founded and waterworks built, and now water is sold at enormous rates. The Cae for the Party All Over the this letter-writer states, to the people of Birmingham. We have never before heard such stories told of Colonel Pow-ell, or of his origin, or of that want of generosity in dealing with purchasers of lots in Birmingham, which this letter-writer tells; and Colonel Powell should have these absurd statements corrected, now given wide publicity through the pages of the Enquirer.

CONGRESSIONAL NOTES.

After the dispatch of a mass of busi-Senator Alcorn [Miss.] called up the house bill to provide for the appointment of a commission of engineers to investigate and report upon a permanent plan for the reclamation of the alluvial basic of the Mississippi river subject to inumination; passed. Senature of the convention, General Ben Harrison, of Indianapolis, and one vice-president for each congressional district; Colonel R. S. Robertson, of Fort Wayne, principal secretary, and one assistant for each district. Also, a committee on resolusubject to inundation; passed, Senssubject to inundation; passed. Sens-tor West, from the committee on ap-propriations, reported invorably on the district. Also, a committee on resolu-tions, of one from each congressional district, with Honorable Richard W. district, with Honorable Richard W.

Thempson, of Vigo, as chairman. The report was unanimously adopted. Full delegations from every county in the sippi river, and asked for its rume-diate consieration. An objection was made by Saalsbury, and it went over.

Senstor Alcorn, from the select com-Senator Alsom, from the select committee on the Mississippi levees, reported a bill for the relief of the overflowed levee districts of Mississippi, Arkansas and Louislana, which was placed on the calendar. The merning hour having expired, the chair called up the unfinished business, being the posteffice appropriation bill, which was disposed of, and the consideration of the bill for the payment of fine claims allowed by the southern claims commission was resumed. Senator Scott explained that the amendments proposed by the committee on claims reduced the amount allowed by the house bill in the sum of sixty-two thousand dollars. Pending the discussion of the bill the senale went into executive session, and the bill lays over. In the house Mr. Woodfard moved to suspend the rules and adopt a resolution calling upon all civilized nations to establish an international system of arbitration, whereby all matters in dispute between governments may be adjusted without recourse to arms, which was agreed to. The resolution from the women's centennial executive committee, of Washington, for the appointment of the sixteenth of December next to celebrate the destruc-Senator Alcorn, from the select com-mittee on the Mississippi levees, reportexecutive committee, of Washington, for the appointment of the sixteenth of December next to celebrate the destruc-tion of tea in Boston harbor was adopted.

QUEENSTOWN, June 17 .- When the ing, a large and unruly mob had gath ered on the dock, awaiting the appearance of M. Henri Rochefort, who was generally known to be on board. As Rochefort passed down the gangway he was immediately recognized by the crowd, who received him with hootings and executions, and made a rush for him as he landed. The police surround-ed Rochefort, who, it is leared, would have en lynched but for their protection. The intensely excited mob pressed for-ward, hooting and yelling, and followed the Frenchman to the Queen's hotel.

From that place the police escorted him to the depot, where passengers only were admitted. His arrival at Cork was not expected; he therefore passed through e xpected; he therefore passed through ti at city unmolested, and took the train Dablin, whence he will proceed to Agents of the corpo-ration known as the New Yor's Isalian labor company off-sted to furnis h Italian bricklayers in place of the stricters for from three dollars to three dollars and a half a day. They say they have two or three hundred good bricklayers who are anxions to get work, and for whose good conduct they will be responsible. None of these men who were employed as contractors felt confident that they could get as many English speaking bricklayers eas at hey wanted. The disagreement among the employers continues, and several who have decided to pay four dollars a day do not attend meetings. So the eduting of toxes, who have long labored under the hallucination that the people were extremely anxious to have them fill the important offices, conceived the idea of holding a meeting at Bardett, a little village on the Louisville railroad, some twelve miles from the Bluff City, and where noisy Pinch could not control its action. Gentle breezes, blowing over the mead-ows, would dispel all ideas of competition in this meeting, which was to give dollars a day do not attend meetings. At last night's session of the bricklaywere reported as having agreed to an increase of wages.

To such an extent had this been carried that all decert non-officeholders tion to adhere to all the fundamental principles of the Republican party, in so far as the future condition of the country shall require their enforcement, as the Union remains unbroken and the people of all sections are again bound together as brethren by a common destance of the cuming old foxes, who have long there is non-omittenoiders and became alignment. Upon the surface of this movement there was fairness, frankness, and, for the first time in many long years, sincerity; for the leaders in it cared but little for the fleshpots of August, compared to the garlands of Novem'er, and consequently they promised a fair apportionment of the offices among all classes. The Irish, the Germans, and the grangers, were invited to put forward a represent-alive man for position. For quite a while all seemed satisfied. The Germans selected a representative from among them-selves, the grangers named their men to the number of a score, and the Irish in-dicated the candidates for whom they had a preference. Last of all, the Jews selected Mr. A. E. Frankland to run for

TURNER BROTHERS.

A Favorable Past Record of a Recently Suspended Firm-Effects of the Panic.

New York, June 17.—The history of the house of Turner Brothers, which sus-pended yesterday is good. As elicited by friends, several brokers doing busi-ness in 1844 made a specialty of cordials, liquors, fruits and syrups, shipping large quantities of the latter to the West Inquantities of the latter to the West Indies. They were very successful, and as their resources increased they expanded their business, taking a large interest in petroleum, which amply paid them for their ventures. The firm increased in prosperity and numbers until there were eight brothers. They had begun the banking business, and from shabby little offices they entered into a large marble building in Nassau street, which they erected themselves, and which it was understood they had afterward sold at a handsome profit to the Fourth national bank and life insurance company new occupying it. They dealt largely rease township, county and municinow occupying it. They dealt largely with railroads, and generally successfulby until the coming of the panic, which they succeeded in withstanding up to this time, when they suspended. While they had money wherewith to continue for some time longer, they did not see their way out of their troubles, and con-cluded that, in justice to themselves and their general creditors, they had better close immediately and find out their true position. They were known to be large holders of real estate, and the general disturbed state of the markets precluded negotiations of their property.

A good many stories have been started in regard to the solvency of some of the prominent officials of the railroad lirectory, connected with the embar-assments of Turner Brothers; and to these stories, the Post says, is due in a great measure the bitter feeling which prevails at the stock exchange.
